

• Privacy Policy

A. Personal information protection of The International Promotion Agency of Culture Technology

Thank you for using The International Promotion Agency of Culture Technology homepage. Let us explain about privacy policy. This is based on current [law on personal information protection of public institution] and [Guidelines for personal information protection of public institution]. The website managed by The International Promotion Agency of Culture Technology is as follows, and please be notified that this policy applies to all websites managed by The International Promotion Agency of Culture Technology unless explained otherwise.

Homepage of The International Promotion Agency of Culture Technology (www.ipact.kr)

B. Automatically collected-saved Personal Information

The following information will automatically be gathered and saved if you use the homepage of The International Promotion Agency of Culture Technology.

- Internet server domain of the user and website address used to visit this homepage.
- Browser type and OS of the user
- Date of visit, etc.

The automatically gathered/stored information shall be used for statistics analysis to improve the homepage, and for better communication between the user and website, to offer better service.

However, please be notified that there can be cases which these information may be submitted, according to the rules of the law.

C. Information collected through e-mail and web forms

The user may express one's opinion through electronic means such as mail, call, or online electronic form. Following are few matters to be attended to for choosing such method.

- Others may view or open your post on the homepage.
- According to the law, your post may be shared to others who are in need of information, and also be used as a reference for enforcement and policy development of its related law.

Also, this information may be shared with other institutions, or be provided if necessary.

- Although management/technical efforts are exerted for homepage security, please avoid writing sensitive information that can cause problem in case invasion accident occurs.

D. Security Measures Managed by the Website

The International Promotion Agency of Culture Technology is running various programs to detect control (monitor) of network traffic and try to alter information illegally for homepage security or continuous service.

E. Links

If you visit another site or webpage via clicking the link or banner included in various web pages managed by The International Promotion Agency of Culture Technology please check policy of the site you visited, as the privacy policy of that site is applicable.

F. Acquisition of Other Party's Personal Information during the Use of Website

You must not acquire personal information such as e-mail address that can be identified, from the website managed by The International Promotion Agency of Culture Technology. An individual who opened or be provided with personal information in inappropriate manner can be punished according to the rules of Article 23 [law on personal information protection of public institution].

G. Limitation on Usage and Provision of Personal Information

The personal information gathered / stored by The International Promotion Agency of Culture Technology has strict limitation on use and provision, unlike the standard administrative information. [Law on personal information protection of public institution] Article 10 (limitation on use and provision) regulates as follows.

* It must not be used with different purpose other than possession, or be provided to another institution aside from a case which it is used within the possessing institution or be provided to another institution based on other laws.

* However, in following cases, it can be used with different purpose other than possession or be provided to other institution despite of the rules above.

(But if the subject of information or invasion possibility of rights and benefits of third party is acknowledged, it is not done.)

- If there is an agreement of subject of information or it is provided to the subject of information
- If proper reasons exist to use the processed information in order to perform jurisdiction tasks assigned from other laws
- If it is provided to foreign government or international organization for implementation of treaty and other international agreement
- If information is provided in a form that cannot identify a person in particular, for statistics preparation and research purpose

- If it is clearly acknowledged that providing the information to other person aside from subject of information will benefit him/her, in a circumstance when the subject of information or his/her legal representative is in a state where they cannot express their intention, or cannot give an agreement as the address is unknown.
- If needed in criminal investigation, prosecution file, and maintenance or trial tasks of the court
- If there is a special reason determined by other Presidential decree

The International Promotion Agency of Culture Technology will do its best for the use and provision of personal information so that it will not to be used unjustly, by strictly observing the related law.

H. Personal Information Invasion Report

Please notify to the following contact, if possibility of personal information data spill or invasion of subject of information rights and interests have been found while using The International Promotion Agency of Culture Technology website.

Copyright © The International Promotion Agency of Culture Technology. Personal Information Protection Manager

Address: 610 Dongbu Sunville, #99-6 GaRak-dong, SongPa-gu, Seoul, Korea

e-mail : ipact@ipact.kr